Grizelda (verses 2-3, chorus all)

By Clifford Crawley

Grizelda was a witch, a witch she wished she want',
For she was a kind and gentle as could be.
She had a big black cat and a long and pointed hat,
But she felt very much the same as you and me.

She tried to cast a spell, a spell to make her human,
But she couldn't get the words right though she tried,
She looked in all her books for a spell to change her looks,
But nothing seemed to work until she cried.

Chorus:

Incan, rincan, sina cana coo,
Tell me what I have to do.
Incan, rincan, sina canna cee,
All good spirits please help me.

Grizelda was a witch, a witch she wished she wasn't,
But now she is human just like you and me.
She's bought a pure with cat and wears a feathered hat,
And she owns a new house across the street from me.

I hope that you are not any thing you wish you wasn't,
But if you are, and don't know who to tell,
You now know what to do, for it's sure to work for you,
Just chant these words and then uncast the spell.

Chorus:

Incan, rincan, sina cana coo,
Tell me what I have to do.
Incan, rincan, sina canna cee,
All good spirits please help me.

Seeing things at Night (2-3)

I'm not afraid of worms or bugs or mice,
and I can be quite brave when they turn out the light.
But when I'm all tucked in, things come creepin' in my head.
What a sight to see the creature crawlin' in my bed!

Seeing things at night, seeing things at night.
Late at night you wake up in fright with...shhhh.....shhhh.....Rattle!

I have seen them standing by the door
And sometimes I have seen them creepin' on the floor.
Sometimes they're sittin' down,
Sometimes they walk around
So softly and so creepy-like they never make a sound.

Seeing things at night, seeing things at night.
